ABSTRACT

Listed are selected characteristics for institutions of higher education and their branches offering accredited programs, as published in the "Education Directory, Colleges and Universities, 1977-78" by the National Center for Education Statistics. The institutions are shown in State order and alphabetically within States for each accreditation. Additional institutional characteristics given for each institution include institutional size, control (public, independent, or other), level (two-year, four-year, or university), and in-state and out-of-state tuition. An index is included indicating where to find data in this report for all professional accreditations that the institution has. As an illustration of its use, perhaps a secondary school student, in attempting to select a college or university to attend, has already selected a field of interest but wants to know what other accredited fields are available at this same institution in order to select a second major, a chief minor, or to have a fall-back position for a potential change of major. This publication will provide some of the information required by students to select an institution that will meet their needs. Other related data are available from the NCES series, Earned Degrees Conferred. (Author/MSE)

INTRODUCTION

This report lists selected characteristics for institutions of higher education and their branches (hereinafter referred to as institutions) offering accredited programs, as published in the Education Directory, Colleges and Universities, 1977-78 (hereinafter referred to as the Directory) by the National Center for Education Statistics. The institutions are shown in State order and alphabetically within States for each accreditation.

This report also includes an index indicating where to find data in this report for all professional accreditations that the institution has. As an illustration of its use, perhaps a secondary school student, in attempting to select a college or university to attend, has already selected a field of interest but wants to know what other accredited fields are available at this same institution in order to select a second major, a chief minor, or to have a fall-back position for a potential change of major.

This publication will provide some of the information required by students to select an institution that will meet their needs. Other related data are available from the NCES series, Earned Degrees Conferred.

ACCREDITATION

The responsibility for the control of supervision of educational institutions in the United States (U.S.) is not concentrated at any single level of government or in any one public or private body or agency. Varying degrees of control are exercised by each State, but institutions of higher education operate with considerable autonomy and self-governance. Therefore, U.S. educational institutions vary widely in the character and quality of their programs.

A unique feature of U.S. educational practice is the device known as accreditation, which includes voluntary self-evaluation by a school and appraisal by a group of its peers. This process operates through nationally recognized accrediting agencies and associations and certain State bodies. These agencies or associations have established educational criteria (1) to evaluate institutions in terms of their own objectives, (2) to ascertain whether programs of educational quality are being maintained, and (3) to provide institutions with continued stimulus for improvement, thus assuring that accredited status may serve as an authentic index of educational quality.

The accrediting procedure consists of five steps: (1) establishment of criteria, (2) a self-evaluation study of the program by the institution seeking accreditation, (3) evaluation of the institution by competent authorities to determine whether it meets the established criteria, (4) publication of a list of institutions that meet the criteria, and (5) periodic reviews to ascertain whether accredited institutions continue to meet the criteria. Institutions accepted by an accrediting agency or association as meeting its criteria are said to be accredited or approved. One of the best available methods of ascertaining the general standing or quality of an institution of higher education in the United States is to examine its accreditation status.

The customary route for institutions seeking accreditation is through a preliminary stage known as Candidate for Accreditation, which is defined as follows by the Council on Postsecondary Accreditation:

> Candidate for Accreditation is a status of affiliation with a recognized accrediting commission which indicates that an institution has achieved initial recognition and is progressing toward, but does not assure, accreditation.
> The Candidate for Accreditation classification is designed for postsecondary institutions, which may or may not be fully operative. In either case the institution must provide evidence of sound planning, have the resources to implement these plans, and appear to have the potential for attaining its goals within a reasonable time.

Professional accrediting agencies that grant preaccredited status use varying terminology to represent satisfactory assurance of the institution's ability to achieve accreditation status within a reasonable time. The symbol @ following the name of the institution indicates that this institution has attained a preaccredited status in the field of accreditation listed immediately above.

The symbol # following the name of the institution indicates that this institution is provisionally accredited, accredited with some reservation, or approved on probation for this accreditation.

Professional and specialized schools and programs are accredited by the associations listed after the accreditation field. The associations are also listed alphabetically in the appendix in this report. The abbreviations used throughout this report to represent accreditation by the appropriate organization are also those used in the Directory.

SELECTED CHARACTERISTICS

For each institution listed, selected characteristics are shown, including the location (city, State, and zip code), enrollment size, control and type of institution, and tuition.

The enrollment size of each institution shown in this report is the same as that printed in the 1977-78 Directory and is to be used as a characteristic of the institution, not as a precise statistic. It represents fall 1976 enrollment updated in the summer of 1977 by means of the Institutional Characteristic survey instrument if the change was significant. Official enrollment statistics are presented in the "Fall Enrollment in Higher Education" series of publications issued by the National Center for Education Statistics.

The control of each institution is recorded as reported for the 1977-78 Directory. It is shown herein as public (including Federal, State, State-related, local and State and local), ind. (independent nonprofit), profit (organized as profit-making), or other (affiliated with a religious group).

The type of institution is reported as University (UNIV), other 4-year, or 2-year. Universities are those institutions that place considerable emphasis on graduate instruction and have at least two professional schools that are not exclusively technological.

Tuition included is the undergraduate tuition and required fees, not including room and board charges, for the academic year 1977-78. All fixed-sum charges, which are required of a sufficiently large proportion of all students, are included in these data. If the amount varies depending upon the class level of the student, subject-matter major, or courses taken, etc., the typical or modal amount is estimated for charges that are required. Charges that are clearly optional are not included.

This report contains two items in the tuition area: Tuition in-State shows the tuition and required fees for in-State students; Tuition out-State, which includes the out-of-State premium, shows the total tuition and required fees for out-of-State students. Public institutions invariably charge an extra fee for students residing out of State. Tuition in-State and Tuition out-State are identical for private institutions, since they do not charge an additional premium based on the residence of the student.
